Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from A Soldier of England: Memorials of Leslie Yorath Sanders; Born July 5th, 1893, Killed in Action 10th, 1917 Many friends closely associated with my boy have pressed persistently for a book to be published as a memorial of his life and death. With much reluctance, and with much of the pain which only a mother can understand, I have compiled this little book of selections from his writings, etc., in the hope that it will satisfy the requests of those admirers of my boy whose generous sympathy has never failed to be a matter of consolation and inspiration. Lest there should be some who will read these pages with sadness, some mother whose heart is aching with longing for her son, some questioning souls who may ask: To what purpose was this waste? Why was not this life, so rich in promise, permitted to come to full fruition? To such there is a word that must be said. Being human, we know the anguish of empty arms and eyes that ache with desire to see; but, in spite of that, we know a far higher thing. We know that there is no death. Leslie lives - a vivid, radiant life - free from all the fetters of time and sense, he lives and works and loves, as he could not do in this Time life: and we are content, and glad, and proud.
