Excerpt: . . . 12 predict the severity and impact of an influenza pandemic, whether from h5n1 virus currently circulating in asia, in europe or the emer-gency of another influenza virus of pandemic potential. however, modeling studies that a medium-level pandemic could result in 89 to 170, 000 death. a more severe pandemic, as happened in 1918, could have a much greater impact. there are several important points to note about pandemic, about influenza. First, pandemics happen. There were three during the past century. second, the capacity to intervene and control the spread of the virus, once it gains the ability for sustain person-to-per-son transmission, will be extremely limited. an outbreak anywhere in the world increases the risk everywhere. Third, H5N1 avian influenza strain that is circulating in Asia among birds, is currently considered the leading candidate to cause the next pandemic. However, it is...
